ABOUT Hand Drum Rhythms

Hand Drum Rhythms founder and facilitator Jordan Hanson studied traditional music in West Africa, Cuba, and Brazil. His enthusiasm for drumming is contagious, and he is able to get new students playing traditional rhythms within a few minutes. Students love his easy-going approach, and the way he makes beginners feel comfortable learning a new skill.

Jordan teaches at the School of Music at the University of Victoria, and has guest lectured at over a dozen universities across Canada. His programs for schools, community and organizations have been the subject of over 50 national and international radio and television features. From coast to coast, Jordan has now taught more than 100,000 Canadians how to drum!
